Nebraska High Schools Earn Honors in TEAMS Engineering Competition at UNL

(Lincoln, Neb. – Feb. 26, 2014) – Thirteen Nebraska high schools competed in a national competition with emphasis on science and math for solving real-world problems.

On Feb. 24, 2014, the UNL College of Engineering hosted the 2014 Tests of Engineering Aptitude Mathematics and Science (TEAMS) competition. The day-long competition at UNL was sponsored by the Nebraska Society of Professional Engineers (NeSPE) and focused this year on opportunities and solutions related to engineering tomorrow’s cities. A total of thirteen schools brought 23 different teams to compete. Top scores from this event proceed to the national level, where the competition’s grand prize includes $2,500 cash, a team trophy, student medals and certificates.

Top 2014 finishers at UNL were grouped by grade level and school population size:
